Bringing the good news of Jesus to Muslims in Ethiopia

Tadele and Carl are witnesses to God's love for Muslims, as He grants them faith in Jesus.

As Christians and Muslims struggle to understand one another through our media's biased messages, it is amazing to hear the stories of how Jesus is currently bridging the gaps between our cultures, reconciling all peoples through His cross.

Carl Medearis and his family lived in Lebanon for 12 years. They encouraged university students, business professionals and political leaders to live their lives by the principles and teachings of Jesus in order to change their societies and nations. Carl works to catalyze movements in the Middle East to promote peacemaking, as well as cultural, political and religious dialogue leading toward reconciliation.

Tadele Lonsako was born into a family with a long history of preaching Christ to multitudes in Ethiopia. He pastored El Bethel Church in Phoenix for 10 years. For eight years, Tadele has been making annual two-month visits to share Jesus boldly in Ethiopia, and he has helped birth 42 fellowships of Muslims who now worship Jesus as their Lord. Tadele and his family have plans to move back into Ethiopia permanently during the summer of 2012.

Ministries throughout the city are sponsoring this event, where dessert will be served.

An offering will be taken at the end of the evening to help Tadele Lonsako's family as they share Jesus with Muslims in Ethiopia.
